New State-of-the-Art Automotive and Welding Education Center
Read story on page 3.
I want to thank Douglas County for its warm welcome since I moved here in July. What an amazing place to live, and on top of it all, I get to work at Umpqua Community College, an institution that has such a positive impact on the community. I am extremely proud to say that our campus is open and serving students as we continue to balance mitigating the risk of the pandemic and the even greater risk, in my estimation, of a generation of under-educated members of our amazing community. We do important work at UCC. Our students are the north star of everything we do, and we will continue to dedicate our energy toward service to students.

Sincerely,

Rachel Pokrandt, President
Umpqua Community College
Students interested in pursuing automotive, welding, and apprenticeship technologies at Umpqua Community College will have access to the latest technology and educational infrastructure after a massive renovation of Lockwood Hall.

Originally built in 1969, Lockwood Hall has now been reconfigured for state-of-the-art hands-on instruction. The automotive facility now includes a redesigned space for improved shop flow and new car lifts. With the updated technology, students can learn how to work on hybrid vehicles.

The Welding program previously had temporary booths that provided space for 17 welding students. After the remodel, there are now 29 welding booths in two welding labs, one welding lab dedicated to aluminum welding and fabrication, and the other for welding lab for steel. A new Miller LiveArc Machine helps train welding students with immediate feedback and reduces material consumption.

Previously, Lockwood Hall had no formal entrance. Students entered Lockwood through the men’s locker room or a hallway with the staff copy machine. Walls were removed and reconfigured, which lead to additional space, a more formal entry, and a modern lobby.

“The Lockwood Hall facility not only includes the latest tools and technology but also compliments our top-notch instruction. It is our hope that the new building will recruit more students to learn these high-demand trades,” said Ian Fisher, Welding Instructor Coordinator, and CWI. “We’ve already seen a 50 percent increase in student retention for this fall and an increase in women enrolling in the programs as well. There are a lot of opportunities in this trade for women.”

Isaiah Denley-Arensmeier is also enrolled this fall and said, “It’s the most advanced place that I’ve ever done automotive work in. It’s great to be in a nice shop and makes learning much easier in a garage like this.”

The apprenticeship program now has a new machining and hydraulics lab and was brought back on-site. Previously, this program was housed in a separate leased building with a monthly fee attached. By relocating UCC’s finance department and mailroom this remodel has brought Apprenticeship students back to the UCC main campus for classes. A brand new machine shop with mills, lathes, and classroom space serves Millwright apprentices.

This new facility will provide UCC students with relevant and up-to-date industry training for many local employment opportunities. Several welding graduates have gone on to work in leadership positions at local manufacturers such as Performance Fab, North River Boats, Con-Vey Keystone, and Roseburg Forrest Products.

The project was made possible by generous donations from Con-Vey, Perry Murray, and the estate of Jean and John Loosley.

Ann-Marie Holloway started a daycare center at her Riddle home in 2005. In the 16 years since, Miss Ann’s Kiddie Korner has grown to become a regional network of daycare centers. Between its three sites (and a fourth on the way in Merlin), the business provides early development skills to 150-175 children and employs 19 vetted childcare workers. Holloway recently answered some questions as part of our “Ask me about UCC” series.

Q. What was it like before and after you connected with UCC?

A. I started as a home daycare provider with two children in my home. Before long I was caring for ten children, and I decided to take some classes to help me understand the business side of professional childcare. UCC provided some “Family Connections” courses that allowed me to learn about the profession, network with other businesses, and eventually establish our facility as a designated provider.

UCC has continually helped me by providing many classes over the lifetime of my business. The courses educate me on business management and marketing, and help me understand the ever-changing rules and regulations. I also require my staff to take UCC courses not only to maintain state requirements, but also to prepare and sustain them as efficient and caring childcare workers.

Looking back, how has UCC contributed to your success?

A. A lot has changed since those early days when I had two children in my house. With the skills and ideas I honed over the years at UCC, I continue to grow my business in line with my dreams. I’m now the owner of three daycare facilities that provide care for over 150 children ages 6 weeks to 12 years in both Douglas and Josephine counties. We are expanding to include an additional building in Merlin that will accommodate up to 100 children. The funding for that is coming from an Individual Development Account (IDA), which matches my savings of 4-1 for the project. If it wasn’t for the UCC classes, I would not have known programs like these are out there for small business owners like myself.

If you would like to learn more about the SBDC Small Business Management Program, visit umpqua.edu/sbdc or call 541-440-7824.

“As a childcare provider, I went into the business to watch children. The SBDC and Care Connections provide answers to questions childcare providers typically don’t think to ask, and helps me understand the backend processes required to run a business.”

— Ann-Marie Holloway, owner Miss Ann’s Kiddie Korner
